

DEMOCRATIC

Party in Louisville Bitten by Rough Tactics and Padded Negro Vote.

Now Settled Fact That Negroes Preferred G. O. P. to Better Government.

Quin Administration Condemned to Failure Because of Machine Bossism.

"REFORM" SQUADS OF THUGS.

With a big Democratic victory throughout the State and big victories throughout the country Democrats outside are wondering why Louisville failed to keep step and to the source of the failure. The answer is in the instructions given to Republican workers the day before election over the signature of Republican Campaign Chairman Charles H. Moorman. The following sentences are contained in the closing paragraph: "Don't be bullied or bluffed. Our people have stood for the insults of Democratic workers long enough. The Republican party is in power and don't forget it." Imagine Republican workers being huddled, bluffed or insulted with the police force, detective department, Sheriff's office and numerous county police and detectives hehling them. The workers accepted these instructions literally and their conduct on election day plainly showed that they knew the police and all other Republican forces were behind them.

In its report the Mayor's Fair Election Committee never reported, because they probably did not know of the conduct of Republican challengers inside the polls. Men and women, especially those with Irish names, were denied a vote if they could not produce their naturalization papers, many who had lived in Louisville for over fifty years and had given sons to the recent war. They were forced to hunt for their naturalization papers taken out years and years ago. The challengers in most instances were the little snipe Republicans that exist on profits from protected gambling games, or were either "yaps" that never saw a railroad until the Searcy-Chilton machine brought them to town. Young women were harassed by being forced to swear they were twenty-one years of age, and citizens of standing were compelled to prove their place of residence for the benefit of the snipe challenger, who was but following the instructions given by the Republican machine.

The Mayor's Committee reported that they did not approve of the big range gathered by the Searcy-Chilton machine in what they called sub-station gangs, but the committee did not go into details as to the gang. It would be interesting to Judge Bingham, Churchill Humphreys, Arthur Allen and others stationed there to give their exact impression of the gang of "reform" workers stationed at and working out of John Hickey's saloon at Seventh and Oak streets. Words can hardly describe the looks of that aggregation. The sum of the underworld, low-browed thugs, dope fiends and yegmen were in that aggregation and when lined up with their salmon colored Huston Quin badges one saw a collection that would put to shame New York's famous Bowery in its palmy days. Neighbors and residents of Seventh and Oak kept a close watch on their valuables and homes all during the day, and crying children were told to keep quiet or "the bad Republican workers at Hickey's will get you." Yet Ches Searcy referred to this aggregation of thugs as "L. & N. shopmen." What a compliment for honest workers in the L. & N. shops! It is said this crowd and similar crowds were imported to the Stockyards at Chicago to battle for "reform" and Quin the Man. Most of these temporary guests of ours must have motored back home as many automobiles were missing election night, six being stolen from Fourth avenue alone.

Standing out in the result of the election Tuesday is the negro vote and the 27,000 negroes, men and women, voted solidly for the Republican ticket. The United States census shows that there are not that many negro men and women of voting age in Louisville, but the Republican machine made up the difference. It is now conclusively settled beyond the slightest doubt that the negro voter, man or woman, is not first a believer in good government, but first a supporter of the Republican ticket, right or wrong. Leading colored men like, Cole, Warley, Lovett and Porter, men who tried to do something to elect the colored race, received nothing but rebuffs and bruises for their pains. The Lincoln Independent ticket, composed of representative colored men, not only didn't appeal to the negro voters, but the candidates were assaulted and battered from the outset. One would think that the negroes would be proud to see one of their number running a newspaper, another at the head of a bank, another successful in business, but the opposite was proven.

On election day the negro newspaper office was wrecked, the negro bank official was assaulted and arrested, and the negro business man, candidate for Mayor, had his home wrecked and demolished. All of these outrages were committed by negroes, members of their own race. Strange to say, none of the so-called leading local negro preachers or educators supported or even encouraged these few who were trying to teach the negro that he must not blindly support the Republican party. On the contrary, these negro preachers, teachers and others of so-called higher class joined hands with the negro thugs, gamblers and others in supporting the Searcy-Chilton machine. The negro has condemned himself; he is for the Republican ticket, no matter if it is comprised of scoundrels, and will support a white Republican machine ticket against men of his own race. The vicious negroes rejoicing in Quin's election made themselves conspicuous the day following. A truck containing drunken and rowdy negroes drove through Fourth street and the central section of the town, waving a dead coon in the air and shouting taunts at white people. From now on the conduct of the negroes will be a menace to the town, and the Democratic party, whether it likes it or not, will be forced in self-defense to make the negro issue foremost in local campaigns.

The Democratic Committee and the Democratic organization need have no regrets over their fight and showing in the election. They fought against heavy odds. Eliminate the negro vote and Harris would have won by 20,000. Eliminate the negro repeaters, the padded vote and the vote robbery of those who couldn't produce naturalization papers, and Harris would have won by several thousand. If the Democratic challengers had offered one-tenth of the insults offered by Republican challengers they would still be in jail. All of above combined means that no fair election was held and the Democratic party in the result was the showing of Charles W. Milliken, candidate for Tax Receiver. Milliken's name was away down on the big ballot, yet he led the entire ticket from Mayor down, receiving 54,762 votes, or 257 more than the head of the ticket. While still digesting the returns the suggestion is made that the local committee arrange for permanent headquarters, the victory in the State and elsewhere meaning that hope must not die in Louisville.

It is not hard to predict the outcome of the Quin administration. "Quin the Man" will become "Quin the Goat" after a few short months. He will be allowed possibly to close a few saloons and places of amusement to enable him to say to the Sunday-school gatherings, "Look what I have done." But he will never be allowed to close the bootlegging and gambling joints, as they are heavy contributors to the Searcy-Chilton machine. Quin will make the speeches of welcome to the goody-goody gatherings but the machine bosses will make the speeches of welcome to the bootlegging and gambling crowds. The police will be worse if that is possible, thinking the election meant an endorsement for the past nightmare of four years. There is a suggestion of humor in the outlook though. What a joke it will be on the high-brow independents in Crescent Hill and like sections who think they voted for good government. A rude and early awakening is theirs.

MARSHAL MADE KNIGHT.

Marshal Ferdinand Foch on Sunday was the official guest of the Knights of Columbus of the Nation at Chicago and became the millionth Knight of the order. "I have been made a Knight of Columbus," the Marshal of France cabled Madame Foch. Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty who dubbed him Knight, also cabled Madame Foch: "Marshal Foch is now a Knight of Columbus by special vote of the Knights of Columbus Board of Directors. America may kill your husband with kindness, but we will do our utmost to preserve his health. He is the millionth Knight of Columbus and the most illustrious of all the Knights of Columbus."

Late in the day Marshal Foch visited the Edward Hines, Jr. Government Hospital at Maywood where he chatted with some of the disabled soldiers and unveiled a portrait of the boy who died in the war and for whom the hospital was named. His reception was one of the largest and most enthusiastic events ever witnessed in Chicago.

DEAD AT EL PASO.

Telegrams received here Thursday morning brought sad news to the parents and many friends of Dr. C. Louis Moir who died at El Paso, Texas, where he had been stationed for some time. He was the son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Moir, and was eight years Assistant Superintendent of the City Hospital. The remains will be brought here but the time of the funeral has not yet been set.

QUEEN'S DAUGHTERS.

The Queen's Daughters are working energetically preparing for their annual Christmas Shoppe, which will be held Saturday, December 3. The Daughters now meet on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of each week in their room, 205 Republic building, where those who will may send gifts for the Shoppe. They invite those who can sew to meet with them, and as there are numerous other things to be done they need many workers. Mrs. J. H. Wather, Jr., is President, and Margaret Lafran is Secretary. For their relief work they would be glad to receive clothing of any description, which should be sent to Miss Mayme Schumann, Chairman of Juvenile Court work.

BRIDES' SHOWER.

Mrs. H. R. Snyder gave a miscellaneous shower for Miss Rose Lee Gatterdam, whose marriage to Mr. Alexander Bauer will take place on Thanksgiving day. The guests present were Messrs. and Mesdames Frank Bauer, Sr., Arthur Boardman, Frank Bauer, Jr., Frank Grieshaber, Roy Gatterdam, Fred Bauer, Theo. Welhe, William Gardner, Harry Snyder, William Sandman, John L. Klaphke, Louis Gatterdam, Julius Grieshaber, Joseph Wrocklage, Mesdames Joseph Gatterdam, Otto Effinger, Howard McCollum, Alex Cassella, A. Snyder, William Weinberger, Foale Schneider, Roy Hartwell, Albert Ruhl, L. B. Green, Theo. Cummins, Joseph Gatterdam, P. Grieshaber, Misses Rosa Lee Gatterdam, Hendietta Snyder, Margaret Grieshaber, Lattitia Green, Elizabeth Welhe, Elizabeth Staab, Mariana Klaphke, Corinne Grieshaber, Irma Gatterdam, Margaret Green, Dolly Schneider.

AROUSING THE IGNORANT.

Calling on all K. of C. lecturers and members throughout the United States to enroll in a nation-wide campaign against religious prejudice, Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty, of the Knights of Columbus, attributes to animus stirred up by organizations like the Ku Klux Klan the recent slayings of three Catholic priests—in Birmingham, Oakland and North Dakota. "We have evidence," said Mr. Flaherty, "that professional prejudice mongers are distributing vicious literature calculated to arouse the violent passions of the ignorant. We have seen this result in the brutal killing of priests—three such slayings having taken place within the last three months. All Americans must oppose this civil movement, the shameless exploiting of the ignorant for profit by malicious bigots. The Knights of Columbus will fight not only prejudice against Catholics, but against Americans of any religion or any race, and we invite all who, with us, realize this menace to join us in the fight."

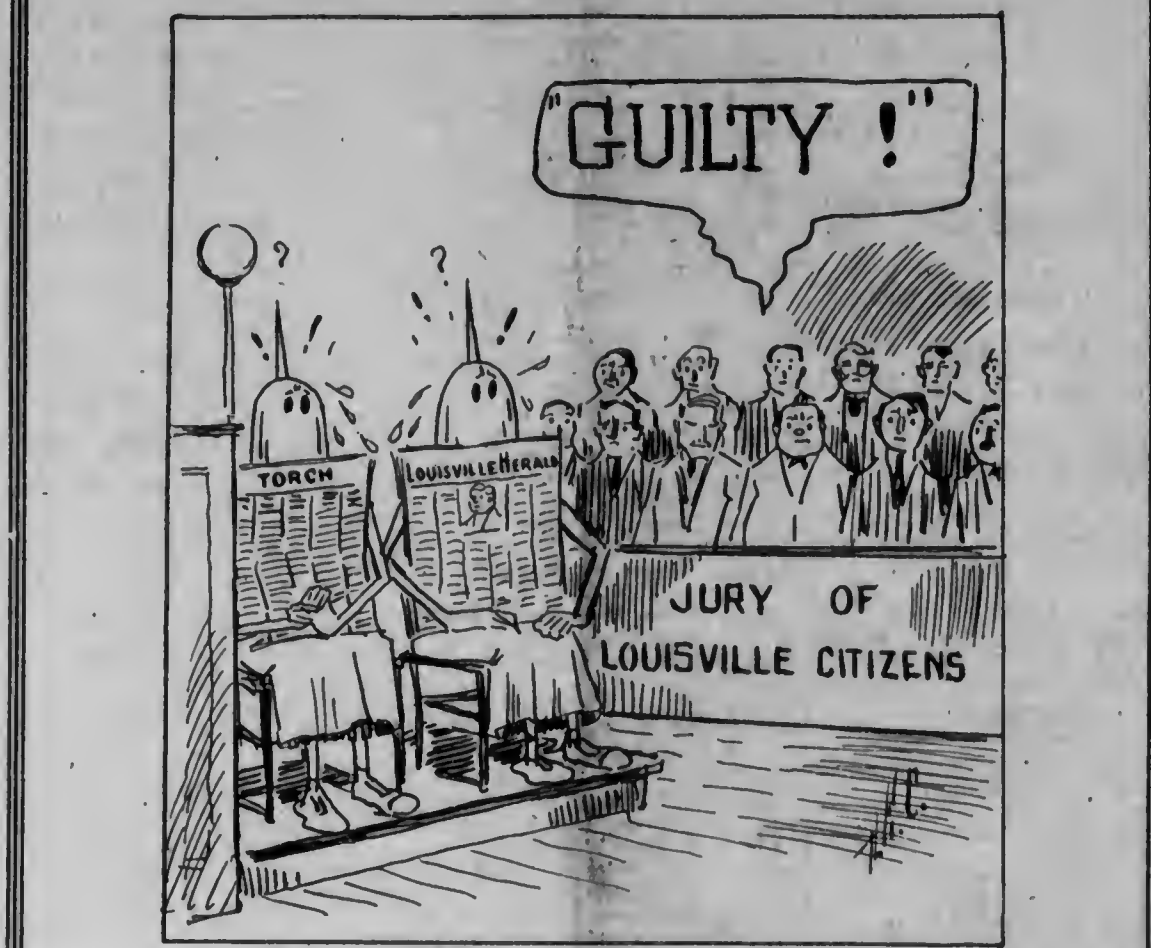

POPE IN TEARS.

Pope Benedict XV. wept on All Souls' day as he listened to the desolation of the horrors in famine-swept Russia. He is contemplating a new appeal to the Christian world to save Russia from death. The Pontiff received in audience Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, head of the International Committee for the Russian Relief. Dr. Nansen had called to thank the Pope for his gift of 1,000,000 lire to the Russian aid fund. During the course of the conversation Dr. Nansen described the horrors of the famine and the death of the people and the Pope could not keep back his tears.

RETREAT A SUCCESS.

The tridium or three days retreat at Holy Cross church, conducted by the Rev. Father Leander, C. P., will close tomorrow. The attendance has been very gratifying to Rev. Father Hill, the pastor.

THE VERDICT.

Searcy-Chilton organ and Missouri mudgutter sheet condemned for inciting religious prejudice.

IRELAND

Lloyd George and Sir James Craig Fail to Reach Any Decision.

Peace Negotiations Are Admitted to Have Reached Critical Stage.

Members of Ulster Cabinet Are Summoned For Meeting in London.

SUCCESS OR FAILURE IS NEAR.

Further discussion of the plans devised by the Government and the Sinn Fein for settlement of the Irish problem was on the programme of Premier Lloyd George and Sir James Craig at the resumption of their consultations Monday. No decision or agreement having been reached at Saturday's interviews between the British Premier and the head of the Ulster Cabinet. The plans under consideration have to do with the question of fiscal autonomy proposed for the two legislatures in Ireland, in connection with which Sir Robert Horne, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Sir Lamington Worthington-Evans, the Secretary for War, both of whom are dealing with the Irish question, were present to take part in the discussion.

Members of the Ulster Cabinet were summoned to London by their Premier, Sir James Craig, to consider proposals made by the British Government in connection with the Irish peace negotiations, and Sir James was to confer further with Premier Lloyd George on Thursday afternoon. These developments, announced officially, are deemed to indicate an approaching climax in the discussions of an Irish settlement. The situation is frankly admitted in official circles to have reached a critical stage. Success or failure of the peace negotiations now rests with Ulster. In the opinion of Sinn Fein delegates, who declare that their proposals to the British Premier with respect to Ulster are liberal enough to allow of a settlement if Ulster chooses.

The serious view taken in official circles is said to be due to the stiff attitude assumed by Sir James in his conferences with Premier Lloyd George. He is represented as signifying that the proposed bases of settlement submitted by the British Premier would, in his opinion, seriously imperil Ulster's rights. Should this attitude be upheld by the Ulster Cabinet and the Government proposals rejected, it is regarded as possible that Lloyd George will carry out his threat to tender his resignation as Prime Minister. Everything, consequently, is thought to hinge upon Thursday's developments.

Michael Collins and George Gavan Duffy, members of the Sinn Fein delegation who have been in Dublin conferring with Eamon de Valera, left for London Sunday night, but Sinn Fein headquarters declared there could be no developments on their side until after the British and Ulster Premiers concluded their conferences.

The members of the Ulster Cabinet who will come to London will include John Milne Barbour, the Marquis of Londonderry, U. N. Andrews and E. A. Archdale. They will be accompanied by Thomas Moles, Chairman of the committee of the Ulster Parliament. Although the morning newspapers generally recognize that the calling of the Ulsterites to London is a significant step which can not fail to produce important developments, they do not accept the view that it indicates a further hardening of Ulster's attitude or adds to the acuteness of the situation.

Premier Lloyd George, who has settled with the Sinn Feiners temporarily, has admittedly as hard a time with the Ulsterites, who have publicly sworn that they have gone the limit when they agreed to the 1920 act.

Newspapers friendly to Lloyd George, apparently inspired from various government sources, today published the frank warning as to what will happen if the Ulsterites refuse to concede points which will be agreeable to Dublin and at the same time safeguard Northern rights. They declare that such a situation simmers down to the resignation of Lloyd George and a consequent general election, which the Government is assured would absolutely vindicate their position and ensure Ulster for blocking the ending of the 700 years' feud.

Meanwhile the Unionists in London, including Bonar Law, Austen Chamberlain and Lord Birkenhead, have renounced the "die hard" and are bringing pressure on Premier Craig to do his utmost toward peace. Even Sir Edward Carson is reported as advising temperate action by his partisans assuring them, following his conversations with Lloyd George, that if Ulster accepts a status similar to Quebec, under the home rule act, all her rights will be safeguarded.

In his own halliwick, despite the support of the United Unionists and Orangemen, Craig has to face the growing discontent of the Ulster business element which is restive under the boycott and threatened destruction of the export trade, and of the manufacturing interests which are already losing large sums weekly. The latter are proving a powerful influence for peace with which Carson and the other moderates may possibly overcome the prejudice of the 500,000 Orangemen who comprise a tenth of the total Irish population.

Interviewed Monday night by Universal Service, Sir James Craig said: "I have spent a strenuous day in consultation with Unionist leaders preparing for a meeting of the Ulster Cabinet. The lines I have adopted will meet with the unanimous approval of the Ulster loyalists, but the situation is so grave that I feel the responsibility should be shared by the whole Cabinet." The Lord Mayor's banquet Wednesday evening at Guild Hall assumed more than national importance when Prime Minister David Lloyd George, replying to the Mayor's toast to the Cabinet, declared that there was a better prospect of Great Britain's proposals to Ireland being heeded today and of Ireland accepting the invitation to enter the British commonwealth as an equal than for years, but that the conference was still in a critical stage. Beyond this he carefully refrained from divulging the results or the possibilities of the conferences which are now being held with the Irish representatives. In concluding he said: "I can not reveal any secrets of the conference room; that is the way to bring a conference to naught. All I can say is that there is a better prospect of our invitation to the people of Ireland to come into free partnership in the British empire as equals being heeded today than at any time for years."

He emphasized repeatedly the necessity of peace, saying that it was needed for the welfare of the empire as well as for the good relations of the British Isles. The worst aspect of a family quarrel, he added, was not only that it caused unhappiness within the family, but attracted the attention of neighbors. A statement issued after Thursday morning's meeting of the Ulster Cabinet members here concluded as follows:

"Sir James Craig, the Premier, in behalf of the Cabinet of Northern Ireland, wishes it clearly understood that there can be no surrender of Ulster's rights."

The statement promised by Prime Minister Lloyd George outlining the negotiations with the Sinn Fein representatives had not been received by the representatives of Ulster, but Lloyd George sent word he hoped to be able to supply it during the afternoon.

The secretary of the Ulster party was keeping in touch constantly with Downing Street, where the British Cabinet met 'noon and it was announced that another meeting of the Northern Ireland Cabinet would be held as soon as the detailed statement was received. Lloyd George meanwhile suggested that his meeting with the Ulster Cabinet go over until Friday.

It is said to note that the religious prejudice issue injected in the campaign by the local and out-of-town organs of the Searcy-Chilton machine had no appreciable effect on the result. Here and there in Louisville there are areas of bigotry, Parkland and East Market street being notable examples. In those districts the Republican ticket was voted to spite Catholics or the Catholic candidates were scratched on the Democratic ticket. The latter class of citizens represented by men like former Attorney General Gannett and Dr. Leon Solomon rebuked the highest attempt to create religious feeling here. "Bloody Monday" is conceded to be responsible for Louisville trailing behind Indianapolis, Cincinnati and other nearby cities today, and if the Republican machine continues its present plans of arousing religious prejudices then other cities will pass Louisville in progress and business. One of the Republican representatives, went to the door of a Catholic school a few nights before election and demanded of the Superiores as to whether some of the nuns who had registered were naturalized. The Superiores told the impudent interloper that the nuns could speak for themselves, but when the same nuns were asked to nurse the sick soldiers at Camp Taylor during the influenza epidemic they were not asked to show their naturalization papers.

MARSHAL FOCH HONORED.

Marshal Foch, on his return to Washington for the Armistice day ceremonies, received from Georgetown University the honorary degree of doctor of canon and civil laws. The Marshal received a word as a gift from all of the Jesuit institutions of America, the French military leader being a graduate of the Jesuit College of St. Clement at Metz. His brother is a member of the order. Ceremonies incident to the conferring of the degree and presentation of the sword were attended by high Government officials, the Ambassadors of the allied powers and official delegates of the Jesuit Order, including notable Catholic prelates.

HEAR FROM POPE.

While the delegations of the powers were quietly at work Wednesday perfecting their part for the Armistice Conference, cheering assurances of support for the purposes of the negotiations reached Washington from two important quarters of the Old World. Lloyd George, British Premier, sent a message expressing regret that he could not be present at the opening today. At the same time it became known through unofficial channels that Pope Benedict had given his approval to the purposes set for the conference and might pronounce the official sanction of the Holy See at the consistory of November 21. He has prepared to maintain close contact with the negotiations as they develop.

DECORATE CHAPLAIN.

Father George Galbraith, curate of the Catholic parish of Kinkaid, in the archdiocese of Glasgow, has been awarded the Cross of Honor, with awards, by the French Government. During the war Father Galbraith served with the troops as military chaplain. For his gallantry and devotion to duty he was awarded the Military Cross by the British Government, to which was added the further honor of a bar to the cross. The Belgian Government also decorated him with the King Albert Medal.

BAZAR AND SOCIAL.

What promises to be a stellar event of the Thanksgiving season will be the bazar and social to be given at Windthorst Hall on November 22 and 23 for the benefit of St. Philip Neri church. The committee are working hard to make this bazar a success, and at an enthusiastic parish meeting Monday night the reports were most encouraging. The sale of books will doubtless be very large, many having already been taken.

BISHOP

Makes Plea For Irish Freedom, That Audience Cheers For Several Minutes.

Refers to the Declaration of Independence as Reason For His Stand.

Traitors to the Principles on Which American Government Was Founded.

NOT IRISHMAN BUT AMERICAN.

With a copy of the Declaration of Independence in his hand the Right Rev. Joseph Schrembs, D. D., Bishop of Cleveland and head of the Laymen's Department of the National Catholic Welfare Council, stood before an audience of sympathizers with the Irish cause that filled Keith's Hippodrome Sunday afternoon and made a plea for Irish independence that caused the audience to rise and cheer his statements for several minutes.

"Though I am not an Irishman, but an American," the Right Rev. Bishop said, "it is as an American citizen that I hold that any man who stands on the platform of American principles must be a sympathizer with Irish freedom. And I go further than this," the Bishop continued, "and say that the man who professes to be an American and yet stands against Irish freedom is a traitor to the principles on which this Government was founded." Then the audience arose and applauded.

"Do you ask me to prove my assertion?" the Bishop continued. "Well, then," he said, "I hold in my hand the Declaration of American Independence. That is the charter of American freedom, and any man who professes to be an American must be willing to stand by that Declaration of Independence. I sometimes wonder," Bishop Schrembs continued, "whether the men who profess such a wonderful love for the British empire and who would join Ireland to it for all time as a slave—I sometimes wonder if these people have ever read the Declaration of American Independence? I know American editions of the London Times—and there are plenty of them from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Indian to the Gulf, bought by English gold which we supply and for which England is asking us to remit the interest—I know this—that these men have not read the Declaration of Independence, or if they have, they have long since become traitors to the principles on which we stand."

The Bishop then read that portion of the declaration of principles beginning, "We hold these truths to be self-evident," down to the words, "derive their just powers from the consent of the governed." He then asked the audience if they believed these principles. There was a shout of approval.

Bishop Schrembs was to have been Chairman of the meeting, which was addressed by Harry J. Boland, former secretary to Eamon de Valera and now representative of De Valera in the United States, and by Peter Golden, National Secretary to the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic. Delayed by confirmation engagements, Bishop Schrembs had not arrived at the time of opening the meeting, and the Rev. Gilbert P. Jennings, pastor of St. Agnes' church, acted in his stead.

Peter Golden is a cousin of the late Terence MacSwiney, and made several allusions to the principles of freedom which MacSwiney enunciated and died for. Golden, a man of medium height and slight build, made an earnest plea for the Irish cause, speaking with dramatic intensity for half an hour. He asked the sympathizers with the Irish cause to enroll in the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic.

In his address Harry Boland said the people of Ireland have established their own republic, which they hope to maintain for all time. He said it was useless to ask the people of Ireland to accept a compromise form of government. Absolute independence, with the right to live their own national life in their own way, governed by men of their own selection is the desire of the Irish people, he said. The first anniversary of the death of Terence MacSwiney, Lord Mayor of Cork, a few days ago, Boland said, deserved the tributes paid MacSwiney's sacrifice. MacSwiney died for a principle of liberty that is world wide in its scope. "There is no bitterness in the hearts of the Irish people," Boland declared. "There is not a god of hate. Love for Ireland and not hatred for England is their plea. We on our side are willing and anxious to make peace. We will do nothing to hamper or prejudice the negotiations now going on and can only pray that they will end in a final settlement of the unhappy strife that has so long existed between the two nations. But should the negotiations break down, and we be forced again to defend our hard won liberty, the army of the republic is ready, armed, equipped and disciplined, to carry on the fight and to carry it on as it has never been waged before."

LOUISVILLE, KY. SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1921

HERALD OWES APOLOGY.

Religious prejudice and a special attempt to create feeling against those of Irish Catholic ancestry was injected into the political campaign just closed by the Louisville Herald. Trivial incidents were magnified by the Herald in a sneaky and cunning manner, tactics being used that paved the way for the coming of the Torch, the Missouri A. P. A. sheet which was distributed by the Searcy-Chilton political machine. The Torch owes nothing to the people of Louisville, but the Louisville Herald does, and an apology should be forthcoming to all fair-minded and self-respecting citizens who make this city their home. Although the Herald is owned and controlled by Chicago residents, its conduct affects residents of Louisville.

SHOULD TEACH LESSON.

The enthusiastic welcome which Marshal Foch received on his arrival to our shores was in marked contrast to the cool and perfunctory reception given to Admiral Beatty, England's foremost sea fighter. There is a lesson in this which the English propagandist should learn, namely, that England will never be popular with the good people of the United States until she reverses her policy in regard to those weaker peoples with whom she is intimately associated. Hypocrisy does not pay in the long run. It breeds distrust, if not the open hostility of right-thinking men; the world over, and the attitude of the people of New York towards Admiral Beatty shows they have a keen sense of what is due to a nation whose practices are diametrically the opposite of her professions.

WITHOUT PUBLIC SUPPORT.

When we read of the great difficulties in the way of enforcing prohibition and the consequent lax enforcement or non-enforcement, we are tempted to ask why these difficulties were not foreseen by our lawmakers who gave us prohibition. There is little doubt that, at this stage, prohibition is practically a dead letter in nearly every section of the country. The reason is that the profits from the illicit liquor traffic are so great that thousands have turned to it as a means of making a living and even growing rich. Efforts at enforcement are inadequate to meet the situation. The great difficulty in the way of enforcement which is seldom mentioned is that the law has not the support of public opinion. Without public approval to sustain it, there can be no proper enforcement of any law. That is what is wrong with prohibition in most places.

THAT LARGE VOTE.

The vote on the resolution of censure was a great triumph for Lloyd George—at least that is how the newspapers regard it. In reality, however, the vote was a distinct triumph for Sinn Fein, for it shows, as nothing else could, how helpless England really feels in face of the menace of war in Ireland. No amount of bluster can alter the fact that the majority members of all parties in the House found it expedient to support the Premier's efforts for peace—a thing they would not have done if they felt that war could be carried on to a successful finish. This is the true lesson of the vote that virtually gives Lloyd George a free hand in the negotiations.

ENGLAND'S NECESSITY.

The British House of Commons, by a vote of 439 to 43, refused to censure the Government for initiating and carrying on the Irish negotiations. Practically the vote is a mandate from the Commons to proceed with the negotiations. Lloyd George, while defending his course with his usual vigor, gave no information as to what has been decided at the conference or is being discussed regarding Ireland's claim to independence and the rumored attempts to arrange concessions from Ulster for a United Ireland. Much of his speech was devoted to holding before the Commons the prospect of a renewal of guerrilla warfare, if the conference broke down. He declared the first thing the Government would have to do would be to ask the House to strengthen the crown forces, but pointed out the cost of renewed warfare and reluctance of the country to incur greater taxation and ask more young men to risk their lives. He asserted the Government's resolve to refuse concessions which would weaken the empire, but to explore all paths to an honorable peace, and emphasized the fact that any agreement must be ratified by Parliament.

The True Voice believes that the British Premier here stated the whole reason for the conference. Britain was forced to it owing to the cost of the warfare in Ireland, and it is only the fear of the cost of renewing that warfare that keeps the conference going. As for trust in British honesty in the conference, we might as well look for honesty among thieves. Lloyd George is a clever trickster and he hopes to save something by the conference. He will concede just what he is forced to give and no more. In this case England's necessity is surely Ireland's opportunity. And the success of the conference depends altogether on the depth of British necessity.

PROGRESS BACKWARD.

Here is an example of making progress backward. The Catholic Sun learns from the official organ of the Junior Order of American Mechanics that in Kentucky the number of councils instituted was twelve, while the number suspended was thirteen. The number of candidates initiated during the term was 2,611, while the suspensions totaled 3,457. A case of you can't fool all the people all the time. In North Carolina, another stronghold, initiations during the year numbered 3,181, while the suspensions totaled 5,772.

AUTUMN SEASON.

Thus far we have enjoyed a most beautiful autumn season. The glorious sunshine, the mild temperature and balmy breezes almost compel one to take a walk or drive on the public highways and view the parks and woodlands in all their gorgeousness. Nature indeed is now arrayed in all her beauty, and seems to speak to us in all her moods and fancies. In her fall lesson let us learn the real worth of a well spent life. The glories of maturity, that has been seasoned with charity, sympathy and good deeds, will secure for us the glory of eternal life.

TRIBUTE TO K. OF C.

Under the heading of "Casey at the Bat," Editor Brisbane, of the New York American, pays the following tribute to the Knights of Columbus:

The American congratulates the Knights of Columbus upon the work done by the order during the past twelve months. For once figures become interesting. Here is the record: During the year the Knights have expended $3,529,424 on welfare activities. Of this sum $3,341,479 was spent for education of war veterans in 130 trade schools conducted in 125 cities, and on free college courses for more than 400 veterans in Yale, Georgetown and other colleges. For hospital service the Knights spent $202,533 in fifty hospitals. On employment bureaus the Knights spent $171,536. "Casey" has educated 200,000 war veterans, found jobs for 350,000 and provided hospital welfare service for 30,000. The "overhead" cost of this service was less than one-half of one per cent. It would be hard to speak too admiringly of such a magnificent record. Plenty of the noisiest 100 per cent. patriots, who shouted and cavorted while urging the soldiers to go ahead and earn the nation's undying gratitude, have ceased to have any interest in the boys now. But "Casey" has gone right ahead aiding the well-lads, succoring the needy lads, finding work for the jobless lads and tenderly and beautifully caring for the sick and maimed lads, again we congratulate the Knights of Columbus. To us this record they have made seems to be compounded equally of the true spirit of Christianity and the true spirit of patriotism.

PARENTAL MISTAKES.

An exceedingly large number of our boys and girls are going to ruin because of parental neglect and indifference. The great trouble is that the average parent, either through weakness, mistaken kindness or a disinclination to take from his own leisure the time necessary to discipline his children, attempts to pass this obligation on to others. He looks to the school teachers and other public directors of juvenile activities to do that which can be done properly only by himself.

"REMEMBER."

Dull and dark and dreary month.
Sad month of November,
Ever says one single word,
Just one word—"Remember."

Holy souls now pass away,
Children, tender-hearted,
Look to you and bid you pray
For these souls departed.

Holy, suffering, patient souls!
Oh, how they are longing
For their home, where Jesus dwells,
Where the saints are thronging!

Listen to them, little ones—
To their gentle pleading:
"You can help us, children dear;
We, your prayers are needing."

"Jesus, mercy! Mary, help!"
Often this November
Pray for us this little prayer—
"Say you will—"Remember!"
—Sve Maria.

FRANK A. GEHER.

Louisville lost another of its foremost and most highly respected citizens when Frank A. Geher, sixty-two years old, passed to his eternal reward Wednesday night at St. Joseph's Infirmary. That he had been ill for the past two months was not generally known, and news of his death came as a shock to the entire city. A native of Louisville, Frank Geher was educated at St. Boniface's parochial school and St. Xavier's College. In early life he engaged in the stove and household furnishings business. He was one of the founders of St. Lawrence Institute for working boys; Past Grand Knight of the Louisville Knights of Columbus; member of the Board of Directors of St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum, and a member of the Louisville Automobile Club, Market Street Merchants' Association and other civic bodies. Under the Buschmeyer administration, Mr. Geher served on the Sinking Fund Commission. He is survived by a sister, Miss Magdalene Geher, with whom he resided at 1057 Cherokee road. His funeral was held this morning from St. Boniface church, of which he had been a lifelong faithful and devout member. By his passing the community suffers a distinct loss.

JOHN W. GRAY.

John W. Gray, sixty-six years old, retired contractor, died early Wednesday morning at his home, 1830 West Hill street. He is survived by three sisters, Misses Mary, Florence and Elizabeth Gray, and four brothers, George, Arthur, Parker and W. C. Gray. Funeral services were held yesterday morning at the residence. He was well known and held in high esteem by Protestants and Catholics alike, and was a generous donor to all worthy charities.

PRETTY WEDDING.

George Gatterer and Miss Mary Biggs were married Wednesday morning at Holy Trinity church, New Albany, the ceremony being performed by the associate rector, the Rev. Charles Walsh, in the presence of a large number of friends. They were attended by Miss Angela Biggs, sister of the bride, and Clement Gatterer, brother of the groom. A reception took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clell Biggs, 1711 East Spring street. Mr. and Mrs. Gatterer departed for Evansville, where they will reside.

THREE GREAT LAWS.

The Irish Theological Quarterly, edited by men in the faculty of theology of St. Patrick's College, Maynooth, always contains some clever and courageous remarks on the great social question of today. Thus Rev. Garrett Pierce holdily asserts that "the monopoly of goods or unrestricted capitalism" is one of the three great monopolies of history, the others being the "monopoly of women or polygamy," and the "monopoly of government or tyranny." All of them, traceable to the selfish element, the animal in man, "are illustrated in the hog with its feet in the trough," as Rev. Pierce puts it.

"Christ," he continues, "expressly supplied the remedy for one abuse; He suggested a remedy for the second. His principles and the reason He has given us point to a similar remedy for the third similar abuse. It is not Socialism, which would mean to remedy an abuse by a similar abuse; it would be glorified bureaucracy with very human and frail officials. It is rather a distributing of the earth's goods, not by a mere limited profit-sharing, but by a full property-sharing, or partnership, which would give capital its moderate due and would give all workers, mental and manual, the returns that are the proportionate fruit of their labors." Educated public opinion will undoubtedly recognize the reasonableness of this division. "It discourages Monism and sets the Mormon apart," says the Maynooth Father, "but it has not yet reprobated Mormonism in earthly goods, nor has it yet pilloried the millionaire."

"Yet the latter has," as Rev. Pierce quite correctly contends, "by unduly absorbing the earth's goods inevitably lowered the standard of life and comfort of other men." Instead of the three great abuses of history, monopoly in women, in government, in goods, the Irish theologian hopes to see the world gradually recognizing the three great laws, the law of partnership in married life, the law of partnership in government, and the law of partnership in property. "This will help," he says, "to eliminate the present slaves. For we have not yet abolished slavery, only the name. We have altered our consciences by hypocritically changing names, from 'slave' to 'serv' from 'serv' to 'servant.' And the 'servant' is with us still. Yet there was and is one who did not call his helpers servants, but friends."

"These statements," comments Social Justice, published by the Central Bureau of the Central Verein, "seem radical, but it is only by such Christian radicalism that we may hope to save society."

PEWEE VALLEY.

Last Sunday was a red letter day for Rev. Edward Boger, the pastor, and the Catholics of Pewee Valley and vicinity, who had a glorious celebration of the golden jubilee of St. Aloysius church. The pretty stone church was filled to overflowing and many clergy were present to assist Father Boger. The occasion was one that will be long and pleasantly remembered.

THEY ARE BUSY.

Father Maurice and Father Benedict C. P., of the Sacred Heart Retreat, are in Roanoke, where they are conducting a two-weeks mission at St. Andrew's church, closing on November 20.

Father Raphael, C. P., and Father Henry, C. P., are in Belvidere, Ill., where they are giving a mission at St. James' church. Father Alexander, C. P., has gone to Wilmington, Ill., to conduct the special services for a few days' retreat at St. Rose church.

NEW ALBANY.

The newly furnished and decorated women's club house of the Catholic Community Center, New Albany, was opened formally at a reception at 8 o'clock Wednesday night. Mrs. George Moser was Chairman of the Reception Committee, and other members were J. Claude Bird, G. B. Weinmann, Mary Hees and G. E. Gilles, and Misses Amelia Gohmann, Nettie Kistler, Mabel Torstegge, Reta Loesch and Kate Schnell. A musical programme was presented during the evening.

DRINKING FOUNTAIN.

A drinking fountain is a place For a human being to put his face; That he could drink and be content Knowing no germs are on mischief bent.

But the fountain is often abused When as a cupid it is used; By those who do not think When they go to get a drink.

If tobacco you must use The floor and fountain do not abuse; Prove to others you are a man By throwing your quid in the garbage can.

You would not pull this stunt at home

For you know your mind would begin to roam;

They would hound a club on your bean

Which would cure your habit for nicotine.

ANTHONY J. MCGUIRE,

Past President of Mackin Council.

BOUQUET TO MARSHAL.

One hundred thousand children attending the parochial schools of New York are uniting in offering a spiritual bouquet to Marshal Foch. The Catholic children of Europe gave a similar bouquet to the illustrious French commander, who expressed satisfaction at the practice. Each child has been asked to offer up attendance at two Sunday masses, ten rosaries, one holy communion, twenty aspirations, forty memoranda to be completed within thirty days.

FORTY HOURS.

The Rev. Father Martin O'Connor will open the Forty Hours' Devotion at the Church of Our Lady, Thirty-fifth and Ruid, at the high mass tomorrow morning, with procession and exposition. The services will continue until Tuesday. All are expected to attend these devotions, which will prove most beneficial. Father O'Connor will be assisted by a number of visiting priests.

MEET IN BERTRAND HALL.

Division 4, A. O. H., will hold its next meeting Monday evening in Bertrand Hall, repairs and improvements having been completed, and President Jos. D. Hennessy and the other officers are making special efforts to have a large attendance. During the past three months the division has been holding its sessions in Holy Rosary Academy Hall.

NAMES ARCHBISHOP HANNA.

Most Rev. Archbishop Hanna is one of three members of a new board to adjust wages in the building trades industry in San Francisco, created on appeal of members and officers of the Builders' Exchange and representatives of labor.

TURKEYS GALORE.

Preparations have been completed by the ladies of the Sanctuary Guild of St. Charles church for their Thanksgiving festival, to be held on Friday, November 19, in St. Charles Hall. Twenty-seventh and Chestnut. They will have turkeys in abundance—more than enough for all. Everybody will be welcome.

WILL BEGIN WORK.

Work will soon commence on the Archdiocesan major seminary, to be built on twelve squares of ground in the beautiful uptown section of New Orleans, known as Carrollton. The initial structure will cost $500,000 or more. Col. Allison Owen, a distinguished military leader and a prominent Catholic layman, is the architect for the seminary.

QUACK OFFER.

When we hear men, who think they are social reformers, attack the Catholic Church we know they have nothing to offer as a remedy for the ills of the world, but some new variety of quack medicine. There is not a question of right and wrong in the world which does not find full and complete answer in Catholic theology.

THIS SUPREME TEST.

Rev. Father Fealy, Chaplain at Fort Meyer, Washington, is authority for the statement that fully one-third of all the interments at the Arlington National Cemetery of the dead brought from France have been Catholic boys who gave their lives for their country. That such a large percentage of brave Catholics have measured up to this test is the best refutation of the calumniators and slanderers, who call in question the Americanism of Catholics. Father Fealy will be remembered as head of the Chaplain's Training School at Camp Taylor.

JEWEL BIRTHDAY CARDS.

The Rogers Church Goods Company is now offering a new jeweled birthday card, with a special design for each month. These are different and dainty and should prove quite popular.

Jacques in the name of King Albert at a public demonstration in the New York Belgian Bureau.

WELFARE LEAGUE.

The Welfare League campaign, November 15 to 22, is held to raise the funds to carry on the work of the thirty charitable and philanthropic institutions and societies which make up the Welfare League. The helpless, the unfortunate, and the needy of Louisville are helped by these organizations. All charitable people should co-operate in this home welfare movement. A gift here is a gift for all.

Mrs. Thompson is heading the committee in charge of the affair and Mrs. P. H. Callahan is president of the Auxiliary.

DISARMAMENT.

The Courier-Journal interviewed a number of local clergymen to obtain their views on the Disarmament Conference, among them Rev. John T. Hill, of Holy Cross church, and Rev. C. P. Rafo, of St. Charles Borromeo, and their expressions may be taken to represent Catholic sentiment generally. Father Rafo said: "As the International Disarmament Conference convenes every Catholic prays, petitioning God to turn the hearts of the delegates to a true and lasting peace. The people want peace, whether the governments want it, is a question. There will be no permanent peace until the nations get nearer to God. They will have to love God with all their hearts and all their strength and all their minds and their neighbors as themselves for God's sake. When the hearts of the nations are filled with this true spirit of religion, God will reign, and nations will dwell in brotherly love and that will mean peace."

Father Hill when seen responded to the query as follows: "It is to be hoped that the conscience of each delegate to the disarmament conference will dictate his actions and deliberations. A nation can not exist wholly disarmed. Armament can be minimized, however, and right eventually will prevail."

JEWISH CITIZEN'S ANSWER.

Appropos of the deluge of A. P. A. literature distributed through this district by Republican plotters is the following letter of Dr. Leon L. Solomon, a Jewish citizen and one of our leading physicians: "Mr. Billy Parker, Business Manager of the New Menace Publishing Company, Branson, Mo.—Dear Mr. Parker: There came to my notice the other day a copy of your publication, being Volume 2, No. 77, under date October 29, 1921. The copy seemed to have been mailed to me from your office. I have carefully and painstakingly read it. Such a sheet is a disgrace to the land in which we live. The idea that an institution should exist which has apparently for its sole purpose religious prejudice should be repugnant to every honest, honorable, self-respecting man. I have seen other copies of the paper. As I recall, they come to our notice now and again, especially when an election is about to take place. The writer of these lines chances to be an Israelite. Like the majority of human kind, he is not responsible for what he is. He might just as well have been a Gentile, Buddhist or a Mohammedan. As a Hebrew, he praises God for the privilege of his birth and existence in a free country, which has no tolerance for religious hatred and race prejudice. I recall the words of the late famous Rabbi Moses, who refused to take part in an A. P. A. meeting some years ago, and while thanking the gentlemen who requested his presence, remarked: 'The Jew has been a bare too long to now become a bound.'"

CHIEF JUSTICE WHITE.

Joint action of both branches of the Louisiana Legislature for the purpose of placing a statue of the late Edward D. White, Chief Justice of the United States, in the National Hall of Fame at Washington, was foreshadowed by the introduction of a resolution in the House by Representative A. T. Higgins, of Jefferson. The movement to place Chief Justice White's statue in the hall first took definite shape through the action of the Alexandria District Council of the National Council of Catholic Men, which passed a resolution that the Legislature be petitioned to take action to that effect.

MOST EXCLUSIVE CLUB.

The most exclusive club in the world consists of only four members. They are Marshal Foch, Cardinal Mercier, King Albert of Belgium, and the Duke de Veragua. The first three need no explanation, and the fourth member of the club shouldn't, for the Duke de Veragua is the last living lineal male descendant of Christopher Columbus. The four celebrities are the only European members of the Knights of Columbus, each having been made honorary members of the organization on the occasion of their visits to America. The Duke de Veragua was made a member of the K. of C. more than twenty years ago, when he visited America for the Columbian Exposition, held in honor of his ancestor's discovery of America. He was the first honorary member of the K. of C. Cardinal Mercier and King Albert were made Knights in 1920, and Marshal Foch, the latest honorary member of the K. of C., was made a Knight in Chicago last Sunday. Incidentally Marshal Foch is the millionth man to have the honors of Columbian knighthood conferred on him, as the present membership is 800,000 and losses through death and other causes in the history of the K. of C. amount to approximately 200,000. Several classes to be initiated were postponed to give Marshal Foch the millionth position.

MARVELOUS PRODUCTION.

"The Blasphemer," a notable screen production, was presented to the Catholic men of America by the National Headquarters of the Holy Name Society on the occasion of the celebration of the golden jubilee of the first canonically established Holy Name Society in America. The production of "The Blasphemer" was a truly marvelous performance. Within the incredibly short space of six weeks this play—which has already been pronounced by the greatest critics one of the most notable of screen productions—was staged, photographed and completed for public exhibition. The story of "The Blasphemer" was written by O. E. Goebel, President of the Catholic Art Association, with the Very Rev. M. J. Rippe, C. P. P. G., National Director of the Holy Name Society, and Dr. Conde Pallen, L.L.D., as collaborators. The picture was photographed under the personal supervision of Father Rippe. Those desiring bookings for this picture in behalf of their Holy Name Societies should make application to the Catholic Art Association, whose offices are located at 80 Fifth avenue, New York City.

THANKSGIVING.

President Harding has issued a proclamation designating Thursday, November 24, as a day of thanksgiving, devotion and prayer, and urging the people to give thanks "for all that has been rendered unto them," and to pray for a continuance of the divine fortune which has been showered so generously upon this nation.

ANOTHER WATSON OUTBREAK.

Senator Thomas Watson, of Georgia, who for many years has been a malicious defamer of the Catholic clergy and the Catholic sisterhoods, now turns the visis of his calumny upon the officers of the United States army. He makes the cruel and patently false assertion that numbers of our soldiers were executed in France without trial during the World War; that officers shot down their men at will for alleged offenses; and that inhuman treatment of our boys in khaki by their commanders was a shameful practice "Over There." The Georgia Senator's vile slander has aroused the indignation of the entire country, and the Senate in which he made his attack, as well as the officers of the army, are determined to call him to an account for his outrageous statement. Let us hope that this disgraceful insult will not be allowed to pass without condign punishment. There should be no toleration of "whitewashing." Let the light of official investigation by the Senate lay bare the real character of this fellow Watson, and show the electorate of Georgia the caliber of the man whom they have chosen to represent their sovereign State in the greatest deliberative assembly in the world.—Catholic Telegraph.

Secretary John W. Weeks, referring to charges against army nurses in particular and alleged execution of soldiers without court martial in general, made in the Senate by Senator Tom Watson, Georgia, made the following statement: "No decent man would make such charges, and I measure my words when I say that."

FATAALLY INJURED.

Funeral services for Thomas E. McKiernan, aged forty-one, formerly a lineman in the fire department, and an industrious resident of this city, who was fatally injured when struck by an automobile Saturday night, were held at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday morning at the residence of his brother-in-law, Thomas F. Dolan, 951 South Seventh street, and at 9 o'clock at St. Louis Bertrand's church. While crossing the intersection of Seventh street and Broadway with two companions early Saturday night Mr. McKiernan was struck by the machine of J. L. Cusick, photographer. His head was caught beneath one of the front wheels and crushed, and a few hours later he died at the City Hospital. His companions escaped injury. Mr. Cusick was arrested on a charge of manslaughter. Mr. McKiernan, who resided at 725 South Seventh street, is survived by his widow, Mrs. Katherine McKiernan, three sisters, Misses Mary and Susan McKiernan, Louisville, and Mrs. Roselle Belcher, Chicago, and two brothers, John and James McKiernan, Louisville. He served in the fire department under the Buschmeyer administration and was recognized for his alertness and bravery as a fire fighter.
